LegHandles.com Launches Lineout-Enhancing Product Lines at the USA Rugby National Guard College Club Championships

PALO ALTO, CA., May 2, 2008 — LegHandles.com today announced the launch of three new Rugby product lines at the USA Rugby National Guard College Club Championships at Stanford University. The LegHandles™, LegGlove™, and Sausage™ products will revolutionize Rugby lineouts, providing jumpers with unprecedented height and stability, and enabling them to win more lineouts. LegHandles.com is the official sponsor of the USA Rugby National Guard College Club Championships.

Simple and easy to use, LegHandles.com products provide a level of effectiveness, comfort, convenience, and safety that is not available to Rugby players via today's conventional methods. Since they are reusable and require far less taping than the traditional methods used in the sport, these products also benefit both the environment and the consumer's wallet.

The LegHandles.com family of products includes seven high performance lineout products. The LegHandles™ with Elastic Band Handles and LegHandles™ with Neoprene Handles enable both front and back lifters to reach the same height, resulting in comfortable, solid lifts. The LegHandles™ line serves as an excellent training and development tool. The Sausage™ with Underwrap, the Double Sausage™ with Underwrap, and Sausage™ Compression Shorts are quick and easy to put on and provide maximum comfort. Most importantly, the Sausage™ line of products saves coaches and trainers from using up critical pre-game time wrapping their players. The LegGlove™ and LegGlove™ with Strap provide a comfortable, secure fit and do not require taping. The LegGlove™ pocket prevents the lifters' hand from slipping, dramatically increasing the height and stability of jumps.

Invented by the entrepreneurial father and son team of Kendyl and Joel Román, the patent pending LegHandles.com products are designed to address many of the issues they observed as a result of their experience as Rugby player and coach. As a jumper – first at the Silicon Valley High School Rugby Club, which he founded as a high school sophomore, and at UC San Diego, where he is a starting jumper – Joel has experienced firsthand the discomfort and instability of lineouts. As an assistant coach, Kendyl has observed a pattern in the issues that many young and/or new Rugby players encounter.

“Many youth and new players shy away from jumper positions because their first experience with lineouts can be extremely painful,” explains Kendyl. “Jumpers experience extreme discomfort from being lifted by their shorts and, because lifters are not able to get a good grip on them, they feel unstable in the air and are often dropped. Our products decrease the risk of injury, improves the lifters' grip, and increase the jumper's performance during lineouts.”

The LegHandles™, Sausage™, and LegGlove™ are excellent tools for lineout training and youth/new player development. They are available for online purchase at the LegHandles.com web site (www.LegHandles.com).
